- Wilhelm Gesenius [Gesenius Hebrew Grammar] says about pronouns, “masculine suffixes (especially in the plural) are not infrequently used to refer to the feminine substantive.”
- Jouon-Muraoka [A Grammar of Biblical Hebrew] says, “The personal pronoun agrees almost always in number and generally in gender with the noun it represents.... The suffixed pronoun quite often takes the masculine instead of the feminine, especially in the second person plural and (mainly) in the third person plural...”
- So, the actual Hebrew scholars are well aware the laws of language do not “require” gender agreement. In fact, gender disharmony is commonly used in verses referring specifically to God’s word.

(1 John 4:3)

"...every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh [Trinity]
is not of God:
and this is that spirit of antichrist [Satan's],
whereof ye have heard that it [Satan's]
should come; and even now [70AD] already is it [Satan's] in the world."

(go away), Satan: for it is written [Deut. 6:13],
Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God,
and him only shalt thou serve.*

Lord and my God. (29) Jesus saith unto him, Thomas,
